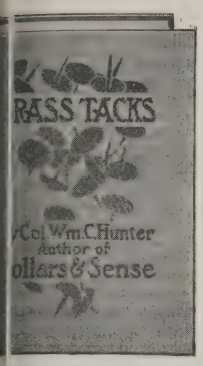
Brass Tacks

y Colonel Wm. C. Hunter, author of "Dollars and Sense," etc.



The Author has this to say of BRASS TACKS: "BRASS TACKS isn't a pretty name. The name doesn't matter, anyway. It is the thing the name stands for. BRASS TACKS will stand for net concrete truth and it will help to digest and grind up the ideas that we take into our mental digestive apparatus. The writer has no strangle hold on knowledge, claims no originality, assumes no superiority and tells nothing new. He tells old things in a new way."

BRASS TACKS is in every way a unique publication. It should have, if anything, a larger sale than DOLLARS AND SENSE, which reached an enormous circulation. BRASS TACKS is just the book to give away—just the book to read yourself.

A striking interpretation of the moral wave as touching the average man in politics and business.

Studies in the phenomena of conversion from the standpoint of the student of human nature.

Prof. William James, of Harvard, says: "Mr. Begbie's book is a wonderful set of stories splendidly worked up. It certainly needs no preface from me. I might as well call my book a foot-note to his. I am proud of the dedication and of the references and I wish the book a great success."

J. Wilbur Chapman says. "One of the most thrillingly interesting books I have ever read. I could wish that every Christian might read the book and receive as much personal spiritual profit as has come to me."

"Those of you who have been delighted with 'Wee Macgreegor' and have chortled with glee over the delights of 'Christina' will learn with pleasure that Bell has written another book of similar character. Wullie McWattie is a joy and the sketches are delightful. Mr. Bell's depiction of the little Scotch town, of the varied character and of the quaint atmosphere is humorous and vivid."

"J. J. Bell's new book, OH! CHRISTINA! is filled with exercises in pure humor. It is not a bit acrobatic, but is legitimate and spontaneous. Christina is a little Scotch girl, and her dialect, while of an unaccustomed kind to American ears, is very true to nature and very funny."

"OH! CHRISTINA! is quite as amusing as 'Wee Macgregor,' but with a quaint, bristling, slangy, good-hearted little girl as the exponent of Glasga' humor instead of a laddie. The book may be read in an hour, and that hour at least will be one of jollity."—The Outlook.

A story which traces the effect upon the hero and charming heroine and the other life-like characters which pass through these pages of a mysterious old box or chest-known to legend as the Eternal Rose. The plot is laid in New York at the present time, and the interest centers in the differing effects of the chest. The weaving in and out of the pattern of every day life in New York of this thread of tradition—this blending of Fourth Avenue and Twenty third Street with the legends of Eastern Monasteries is unique, but so skilfully has it been done that the story is never forced.

For a number of years the able head of the Christian Endeavor Movement has been a great admirer of the Prince of expository preachers. This volume is the result of studies carried on for Dr. Clark's own enjoyment. It is a collection of figures, analogies, similies and illustrations which the great Manchester preacher has used. Not complete in any sense, nor professing to be, but rather selective, and gathered primarily for Dr. Clark's own satisfaction, and now given to the world for their own obvious merit.

Impressions of Africa by one schooled in newspaper work rather than zoology or ethnology, and who went to the West Coast to see what would interest him and to record it as interesting as possible for those for whom he wrote. The impressions are vivid, and the emphasis usually falls upon those sights which most travelers consider either out of their sphere to notice or not of sufficient scientific interest to record, but which at the same time may be safely said to have interested them as much as anything else. Mr. Forbes is interested in people of all kinds, and it is with them that his book principally deals.

¶The Historic Christ in the Faith of To-day. 8vo, cloth... .....2.00 or 2.50

This work on the central figure of Christianity occupies a ground midway between a regular Christology on the one hand and a biography of Christ on the other. It is an attempt to estimate the facts of Christ's life strictly in their relation to the faith of Christianity as an operative in everyday affairs. To this thesis the author has clung with commendable fidelity. He has brought to it rare charm of language, wide culture, and a thorough understanding and appreciation of all that has been said by modern criticism concerning Christ. It is conservative in the best sense of the word, and is a very distinctly noteworthy contribution to the literature on the subject.

¶Great Men as Life Teachers. 12mo, cloth, 1.25

In his new work Dr. Hillis studies sympathetically some of the landmarks of history and their contributions to their own and subsequent ages. Such characters as William the Silent and his work for Holland, Oliver Cromwell and the Engliah Democracy are considered. Dr. Hillis finds his subjects in literature with Tolstoy and Mazzini, in religious leaders like Wesley and Beecher and in statesmen like Lincoln, Garibaldi and Napoleon. The epoch-making contribution of Darwin to science is considered and the work of Arnold Toynbee in the College Settlement. It is not the personality of the men alone that Dr. Hillis thus examines, but the permanent embodiment of themselves in world-wide movements.

¶The Modern Missionary Challenge. Yale Lectures, 1910. 12mo, cloth ..... 1.25 or 1.50

These lectures, by the author of "India's Problem, Kriskna or Christ?" which were delivered at Yale in the current year, are an attempt to re-survey the demand of missions in the light of progress made, in their relation to human thought, and to show that while changed attitudes are largely affected by these, the problem remains essentially the same. The new demands, the new difficulties, the new incentives, are all considered by one whose experience in the field, and whose experience as a writer, entitle him to consideration.

"In the story of the early days of the writer there is a sweetness, truth, and simplicity, and a gentle humor, that of Barrie's "Margaret Ogilvie." It is all as entertaining, as fresh and charming, as any romance. For the rest, it portrays a life of dauntless courage, of high endeavor, spent in service, and serene through bitter trial, partly by temperament, partly by that inborn faith which upholds and enlarges and inspires. As a historic picture, both of domestic life and of a tremendous period, these pages are a remarkable work, and the atmosphere of fellowship and love and help which they carry make them invaluable."—*N. The chapters which comprise this book were given as Lectures before a class in Chicago, at which time the interest in them and the demand for a more permanent form led to their being thoroughly revised for a book. Dr. Stone speaks both with the spirit of personal work and the best methods of getting at it in an unusually vigorous and wholesome way. The book differs absolutely from the stereotyped and more or less hackneyed collection of special cases and equally stereotyped selections, and will be found invaluable to arouse a sense of responsibility in this subject as well as furnishing wise directions for its pursuit.

Missionary Achievements During Nineteen Centuries. Gay Lectures, 1907. 12mo, cloth.1.00
"The author takes a comprehensive historical as well as geographical sweep in his treatment of the subject. Much power is displayed in summarizing the meaning of large movements and in grasping the significance of long periods. The vast ground-swells of the divine movement in human history are impressively revealed. It is a book which assumes a degree of general historical knowledge."—Examiner.

The Teacher Training Library

SELECTED BY A COMMITTEE OF SPECIALISTS IN S. S. WORK

No argument need be presented as to the value of such a library accessible to the Officers and Teachers of any school, or even better, in one's own home.

Each department of Sunday School history and effort is dealt with. Each grade has its special treatment—each problem its attempt as solution. Attention is called to the classification of the volumes and its comprehensive character; also to the names of authors, each a specialist in his department.

Every Church in the land owes, as a duty to its Sunday School staff, that this library be placed in the school, accessible to all. As an investment it will pay large returns in increased efficiency. Depending on an unusually large sale, we have made the price the minimum for these eighteen well printed, well bound, successful works.

INTERNATIONAL CRITICAL COMMENTARY on the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. Issued under the editorship of Prof. C. A. BRIGGS, D.D., in America, and Prof. S. R. DRIVER, D.D., and Rev. ALFRED PLUMMER, D.D., in Great Britain.

This Commentary is international and inter-confessional, and is free from polemical and ecclesiastical bias. It is based upon a thorough critical study of the original texts of the Bible, and upon critical methods of interpretation. It is designed chiefly for students and clergymen, and will be written in a compact style. Historical and Archaeological questions, as well as questions of Biblical Theology, are included in the plan of the Commentary, but not Practical or Homiletical Exegesis. The volumes constitute a uniform series.

LUTHERAN COMMENTARY, THE.
By Scholars of the Lutheran Church in the United States, under the editorial charge of HENRY EYSTER JACOBS, D.D., LL.D. Is being published after extensive correspondence and consultation between the general editor and Lutheran scholars throughout the country. It comprises thirteen volumes of about 400 pages each, and incorporates the text of the revised version. The work fills an intermediate position between scientific and popular exposition. It does not enter into the discussion of critical questions, but seeks to present results. It is adapted to the wants of pastors, and is especially valuable to intelligent laymen and Sunday-school teachers. Each. 12mo. net, 2.00

THE BOOK OF THE ERA

Theodore Roosevelt's

STORY OF HIS FAMOUS AFRICAN HUNT

African Game Trails

The sole account, written by the most conspicuous figure in the world, of his own adventurous wanderings in Africa

Theodore Roosevelt's great hunting narrative in SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE, which met with such tremendous and prolonged success, showed him not only a mighty hunter but a deep student of natural history—of both plant and animal life—and a master of a graphic, rapid, picturesque style.

To form "African Game Trails", this handsome large octavo, the Colonel has thoroughly revised his famous narrative. There will be considerable material in the book, with its 15 chapters and 140,000 words, which never appeared in the magazine; beyond this there will be five appendices on such topics as "Protective Coloration of Animals," "The Pigskin Library," "The Habits of Small Mammals," etc.

The illustrations are chosen mainly from the remarkable photographs taken by Kermit Roosevelt, together with eight drawings made after the author's suggestion from authentic material.

Large 8vo, $4.00 net. (Postage extra.)

A special limited edition printed on Ruysdael paper. Published also in a subscription edition.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE

ADVANCE ANNOUNCEMENT—1910–1911

THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S

own and exclusive account of his AFRICAN TRIP has been the great Magazine feature of the current year. It has been recognized all over the world as a contribution of the highest value and importance, both as a record of adventure and of Natural History. No one has ever written before with so much knowledge or with so keen an appreciation of the wonderful possibilities of East Africa. The narrative will be concluded in the September number.

THE NEW SERIAL. F. Hopkinson Smith, whose "The Adventures of Oliver Horn" was one of the Magazine's most widely read and popular stories, has written a novel of ante-bellum days, "KENNEDY SQUARE," full of charming sentiment and romance. It is a love story of the wholesome sort that the author knows so well how to deal with.

GENERAL FREDERICK FUNSTON, the story of whose career as a soldier reads like a romance, was a member of the famous filibustering expedition that joined the Cuban insurgent Army under General Gomez. He has written several articles about his experiences, that for exciting adventure, incidents of desperate fighting, bravery, acceptance of the privations and uncompromising conditions of irregular warfare read like some exciting fiction.

JOHN FOX, JR., will contribute three articles of unique and romantic interest. He has recently visited the scenes of some of his best known stories, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come", "Hell for Sartain", and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine", and writes about his experiences in a vein that has all the charm and picturesqueness of his fiction.

"ROOSEVELT IN FRANCE" is the subject of an article by William Morton Fullerton giving the reasons for the striking impression made upon the French by Mr. Roosevelt's personality and speeches.

ERNEST THOMPSON SETON will contribute a group of articles about the Arctic Prairies and their Wild Life. A region but little known and parts of it seldom before visited by a white man.

THREE ARTICLES on unusual aspects of California by Ernest Peixotto, the artist.

"THE REAL AFRICAN," by Herbert Ward, one of Stanley's lieutenants. Impressions of the lives and character of the black people by one who has lived among them in the wild country.

FICTION. The magazine has always published the best Short Fiction and there will be stories in coming numbers by Edith Wharton, Richard Harding Davis, Henry Van Dyke, F. Hopkinson Smith, Arthur Cosslett Smith, Mary R. S. Andrews, James B. Connolly, Katharine Holland Brown, Nelson Lloyd, Jesse Lynch Williams, Henry B. Fuller, Mary Heaton Vorse, Georgia Wood Pangborn, Helen Haines, E. W. Hornung, Maurice Hewlett, Margaret Sherwood, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Louise Imogen Guiney, Edith Rickert, Carter Goodloe, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, Molly Elliot Seawell, John R. Spears, Mrs. Belloc Lowndes, George Hibbard, Alice Brown, Gerald Chittenden, and others.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE subscriptions are $3.00 per year, with additional postage of $1.00 on foreign subscriptions

Bird Lyrics and Other Poems

By Charles E. Jackson

In many respects this little volume is one of the best bird books ever published. Mr. Jackson is a close student of nature and especially fond of birds. In his poems one can see, in imagination, the birds flitting about the branches of the trees and hear their melodious voices as they put forth their songs of cheer.

In this work Mr. Jackson has given us his best and every book-lover should have a copy.

The frontispiece is of two little birds printed in colors, and is a neat setting for so dainty a volume.

It is printed on hand-made, deckle edge paper from foundry type of 10-point Caslon, and is beautifully done and a work of the printers' art. Bound with white back, blue cloth sides stamped in gold from an original design, and put up in dainty box. x+94 pp. (4 x 8), $1.00 net.

The author has the poetic instinct. Many of his verses are in a tender, deep and spiritual vein, while others reflect the beauties of earth and sky, the flowers that bloom, the birds that sing, and the love of humanity.

Poet Wildey and His Poem: And Bits of Verse

By Charles E. Jackson

The author, Mr. Charles E. Jackson, is one of the best known Odd Fellows in Maine. He has delivered his address before thousands of his brethren and once in the Grand Lodge under Good of the Order. His subject was so admirably treated that the Grand Lodge voted to ask him for the copy to be published in the Journal of Proceedings. This request was courteously declined at that time, for good and sufficient reasons. Later, however, in an unguarded moment, Brother Jackson consented to have this Address published.

There are also a few Bits of Verse that appeal to all who know about them.

The edition is printed on a special size hand-made paper, set in old-style Caslon type. The binding is in cloth of two colors and lettered in gold leaf. The head-bands and tail-pieces are printed in colors. There is a half-tone cut of Mr. Jackson made from a snap-shot photo of him taken while at work, and shows him in his everyday apparel. Each volume is put up in a separate box and securely packed ready for shipment.

The edition is limited to five hundred copies, each book being numbered and signed by the author. viii+50 pp. (4 x 8), $1.00 net.

Abraham Lincoln: The Man and the Crisis

By Wilmot Brookings Mitchell, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory, Bowdoin College

When Bowdoin College, on Feb. 12, 1909, celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth, the orator of the occasion was Professor Mitchell, who had made a thorough study of the life of our martyred President. On the same day, he delivered an oration at the Lincoln celebration by our State Legislature at Augusta. Some of the results of his study of the life of this "First American" he has now put in book form under the title "The Man and the Crisis."

The author first describes the tornado in which the new pilot was hurried to the helm. He shows that the Republic was menaced, not only by the declared enmity of the South and the half concealed desire of France and England to have the Union torn asunder, but also by the fear, folly and factional differences of its friends. "Amid all this confusion of personal ambitions and partisan prejudices, misguided patriotism, sectional bitterness and racial hate, there was dire necessity for a calm, clear brain, an unyielding will, and an honest heart. Was the President-elect equal to the task? Was the voice of the people the voice of God?"

In an interesting and convincing manner Professor Mitchell then shows that Lincoln in heart and mind, by birth and breeding, was peculiarly fitted to deal with this awful crisis in American history. "His great heart made him hate slavery. With him slavery was not a party issue: it was a great moral question. Unlike Douglas, he cared much whether it was voted up or voted down." Brought up in Illinois, within whose borders, East and West, North and South, met and mingled, Lincoln was able to comprehend the views of all, to understand their tone, and temper, and rights. But from beginning to end he was a Unionist. Upon this question he stood firm as a rock.

The author also shows that Lincoln had an instinct for leadership. With humor, tact, patience and firmness, he managed in a masterly manner his mistrustful and factious cabinet, — the self-confident Seward, the ambitious Chase, the leonine Stanton. Not less was his instinct for leadership seen in his dealings with common folk. With marvellous accuracy he foresaw their conclusions and heard their conclusions from afar. He believed in them and they in him.

The author points out that a powerful auxiliary to Lincoln's successful leadership was the mastery of a clear and noble prose style. But more than all else he was master of himself. In a whirlwind he stood self-poised.

The theme of the whole book is summed up in the last sentence: "In the battle for human liberty in the American Republic a great crisis came, and in the fullness of time there was a man to meet it."

This edition is printed on a handsome paper from 10-point Old Style type. Bound in cloth, lettered on side in gold. viii+32 pp. (5 x 8), $.50 net.

The Poems of Sappho

By John Myers O'Hara

This book is a translation from the fragments of the writings of Sappho. Sappho, one of the world's greatest women poets, is thought to have been at her best about the year 610 B. C. That there are only fragments of her writings extant can but be expected after a lapse of twenty-five centuries. Had it not been for extracts from her writings which were made by grammarians and lexicographers it is probable that she would not have been heard of in this century.

That Mr. O'Hara has done his work in an excellent manner is evident by the rendition of what there is known of Sappho's writings.

The book is beautifully printed from 10-point Old Style type, on Italian hand-made paper with deckle edges, and is beautifully bound with onyx board sides and green cloth back lettered in gold. Frontispiece of Sappho and Her Companions beautifully printed on India tint paper adds much to the attractiveness of this volume. vi+100, ($6\frac{1}{2}$ x $9\frac{3}{4}$) $2.00 net.

No one who is interested in Sappho can afford to be without this work.

PRINCE DOMINO AND "MUFFLES"

By
SEYMOUR EATON

Illustrations by
C. TWELVETREES

IN "Prince Domino," Mr. Eaton has conferred a favor on young folks, by introducing to them an entirely new character in the realm of juvenile literature. This young prince of mysterious parentage, accompanied by his faithful band of adherents, "Dinkey Dadd," "Dutchy" and "Jappy," as well as his wonderful Siamese cat, "Muffles," with his hypnotic blue eyes, travels all over the country smoothing out the many difficulties of the boys and girls he meets. They live as gypsies in the open air, under the bright skies and green trees, and their adventures come thick and fast. The story is clean, wholesome and interesting, and will appeal to every boy and girl who loves the freshness of out-of-doors. Its publication as a serial in twenty-seven of our leading daily and Sunday newspapers is attracting universal attention and has enormous advertising value.

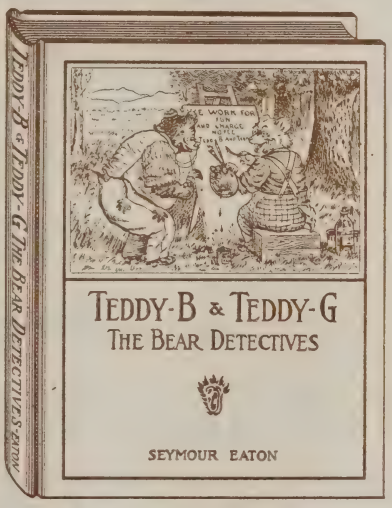
Teddy-B and Teddy-G
THE BEAR DETECTIVES

By
SEYMOUR EATON

Illustrations by
FRANCIS P. WIGHTMAN and WILLIAM K. SWEENY



WHEN, three years ago, Mr. Eaton created TEDDY-B and TEDDY-G and started them on their tour of the world, he builded better than he knew. He gave to the nursery two new characters as interesting and as lovable as Silverlocks and Red Riding Hood.

These Teddy Bears have now turned detectives, and have undertaken to solve the mysteries and to explain the riddles and to answer the questions which for centuries have been puzzling boys and girls. They are engaged by Little Bo-Peep to find her sheep; they set out to trap a Fairy Queen and get into a peck of trouble; they explore the secret rooms in the House that Jack Built; they secure the arrest of the wolf who frightened Little Red Riding Hood's granny; they discover the murderer of Cock Robin; they take up one mystery after another, and, using all the detective accessories of a Sherlock Holmes, they search out the guilty parties and win the applause of the children.

These new stories are written in the same merry jingles which have made Mr. Eaton's Teddy Bear books so readable and entertaining. They are brimful of pointed humor which the older readers will recognize as a burlesque upon popular detective stories, but which will be appreciated by the children as harmonizing beautifully, in imaginative detail, with the famous nursery stories upon which these new creations have been founded.

Every line is clean and wholesome, every suggestion is generous and kindly, and every picture intelligent and funny. Nothing better than the Teddy Bear stories has been offered to children for many a long day.

Uniform in size and style, with the famous Roosevelt Bear Books.

Size, 8¾ x 11¼ inches. Contains 178 pages. 15 full-page color plates and a color inlay on cover. An illustration on every page in the book

STOKES' ENCYCLOPEDIA OF MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

By L. J. DEBEKKER

A NEW work along new lines, the most comprehensive ever attempted, including among other topics, the following:

Brief but clear and complete definitions of all musical terms, of whatever language.

Stories of operas in interesting style, with names of the principal musical numbers, and lists of original casts.

Lucid articles on theory (counterpoint, acoustics, singing, etc.).

Full and most recent data regarding academies, symphony orchestras, publishers, etc.

Biographies of composers, musicians and singers, and great impresarios and conductors.

Complete lists of composers' works.

Compass, mechanism and history of the various musical instruments.

A full bibliography of musical literature.

Convenient cross-reference to all subjects.

The amount of information in the Encyclopedia concerning recent and current events will delight all music-lovers. Every subject has been treated in the light of the latest research; though where authorities differ, both are quoted. In fact, while the book is intended for students and non-professionals, it is of the greatest interest and convenience to professionals as well.

Cloth, price $3.00 net; postpaid, $3.25. Half crushed levant, gilt top, $6.00 net; postpaid, $6.25

STOKES' ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS

Compiled by
ELFORD EVELEIGH TREFFRY

IN spite of the obvious need of such a work there has been for many years no new encyclopedia of familiar quotations. Since the latest appearance of such a work many authors then unknown have come to be widely quoted, while many quotations then familiar are now known only to the erudite. The Addisons and the Drydens have given place to the Roosevelts and the Kiplings.

The clearing out of this dead wood and substituting for it the actually familiar quotations of more recent writers was one of the main ideas in the compiling of this new encyclopedia. On the other hand, the immortal quotations—perennially fresh—are here given fully. The collection is especially rich in Shakespearian quotations, for instance.

The index of this new work will recommend itself strongly to all those whose memories are not infallible. In it you can turn to practically ANY ONE of the important words of a quotation instead of to the first word only.

In spite of the omission of the obsolete material above referred to this encyclopedia contains over five thousand quotations from over six hundred authors, ancient and modern. And this work is more convenient than many older volumes of similar character owing to its exhaustive index and to its arrangement by SUBJECTS instead of by authors. This will prove of great value to those seeking embellishments of essays, speeches, etc.

THE BOY RANCHERS OF PUGET SOUND

By HAROLD BINDLOSS

Author of "Alton of Somasco," "Winston of the Prairie," etc.

THIS out-door boy's story by the author of many popular novels tells how a boy, forced to earn his own living, goes to the Pacific coast and works on a ranch. He and the rancher's son have an interesting life. They learn all the ins and outs of ranching, spend their days riding, digging trenches, grubbing up stumps, or hauling logs, and in the cool of the evening go swimming or canoeing, and dream of the time when they will have a ranch of their own.

Many exciting adventures are furnished by the hunting down of a gang of Chinese and opium smugglers, who finally become so dangerous that actual warfare breaks out, which ends in a siege and pitched battle. How this turns out, and what advantage the boys derive from the episode, make a thrilling and satisfactory ending to the book.

With eight full-page illustrations by Edwin Megargee.

NEW NOVELS

THE GREEN PATCH

By BETTINA VON HUTTEN

Author of "Pam," "Beechy," etc.

In this story appears not the "eternal triangle," but a new "quadrangle"—a proud and shy husband, his beloved wife, a scheming young Adonis, and an amazingly beautiful Eurasian girl. There are two well-matched couples in which the man of one and the woman of the other become entangled through a general misunderstanding. The setting is tropical Ceylon. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50 postpaid.

THE SWORD MAKER

By ROBERT BARR

Author of "Tekla," "Cardillac," etc.

A swiftly moving romance laid in the Rhine region of Germany, at the time of the revolt against the great robber barons—but not the traditional "historical novel." It is a real story of real life with a sword-like temper and rapid play of personality and plot. A figure at once commanding and engaging is Prince Roland incognito, with his roisterous band of swordmakers, outwitting the mighty Rhine barons and the haughty Archbishops, and winning his bride. Cloth, 12mo, $1.25 net; postpaid $1.37.

THE BIRD IN THE BOX

By MARY MEARS

Author of "The Breath of the Runners."

Miss Mears has again taken a powerful, universal idea as a basis for her novel—the craving for liberty which exists in every human soul. The efforts of the heroine to escape from the limitations of her environment through love and through devotion, culminate in a dramatic crisis. Cloth, 12mo, $1.20 net; postpaid $1.32.

MASTERS OF THE WHEATLANDS

By HAROLD BINDLOSS

Author of "Winston of the Prairie," "The Greater Power," etc.

A double love-story—of a man's regeneration by the love of a girl of the prairie after his downfall through reckless speculations in wheat; and of a girl's predicament when she finds herself engaged to one man and in love with another. The book is redolent with the breath of freshly plowed sod and vast acres of rippling wheat. Cloth, 12mo, 8 illustrations. $1.30 net; postpaid $1.42.

Dawn on the Hills of T'ang; or Missions in China

By Harlan P. Beach. (New and enlarged edition of 1905.) Bibliography, analytical index, missionary map, statistics, illustrations. 12mo, 227 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth 50 cents.

In this volume the main points are given in as brief form as possible. In the eight chapters the most important factors relating to the Empire are discussed from the missionary standpoint. The author vividly describes the land, people and religions of China, and gives an interesting account of missionary operations in this empire, with special references to changes following the Boxer uprising of 1900.

Decision of Character

By John Foster. 12mo, 64 pp.; cloth, 50 cents; paper, 20 cents.

This book contains the record of five remarkable lives, all of them, with the exception of the first, written by persons who were intimately acquainted with the life which they so admirably portray. The reader is brought into a sympathetic knowledge of the lives and works of these modern missionaries: David Livingstone, Africa; George Leslie Mackay, Formosa; Isabella Thoburn, India; Cyrus Hamlin, Turkey, and Joseph Hardy Neesima, Japan.

Evangelization of the World in This Generation, The

By John R. Mott. Bibliography, analytical index. 12mo, 245 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, decorated, gilt top, $1.00.

It is doubtful whether any missionary volume hitherto published can compare with it in strength of argument and in prophetic vision. It is stimulating, lucid, and convincing, addressing itself not to the emotions, but to the judgment; yet it is so spiritual in tone and purpose that it encourages and inspires the reader. No prospective leader of public sentiment in Church or State can afford to lose this course of study.—The Sunday School Times.

The book is doubly worth the reading, both for its moving appeal to the universal Christian consciousness and for the timely information it gives as to the grand sweep of modern missionary thought and effort, the wide-reaching activities of the present, and the marvelous opportunities of the future.—The Christian Advocate.

Foreign Missionary, The: An Incarnation of a World Movement

By A. J. Brown. 12mo, 400 pp.; limp cloth, 68 cents; cloth boards, $1.50.

Out of a long and intimate experience the author deals with such questions as these: Who is the Missionary? What are his motives, aims, and methods? What are his difficulties and what the results of his work? How are the Mission Boards conducted? The volume is full of information which no one interested in the missionary problem, and certainly no Volunteer, should fail to study.

Future Leadership of the Church, The

By John R. Mott. Index, 12mo, 208 pp.; cloth $1.00.

The object of this book is to aid in enlisting more of the ablest men for the ministry. It shows that in North America, Great Britain and in other parts of the world there is a serious decline in the number of candidates. The emphasis throughout the book is laid not on the number but on the quality of the men offering themselves to this service.

"I very earnestly sympathize with the plea you make, in 'The Future Leadership of the Church,' for the strongest and best trained young men to turn themselves more and more toward the leadership of the aggressive forces that make for Christianity."—Theodore Roosevelt.

lam: A Challenge to Faith (Revised 1909)

By Samuel M. Zwemer. Statistical tables, maps, charts, index, bibliography; Mission Study Class Edition, paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents. Library Edition $1.00.

The author is one of the leading authorities on Mohammedanism. The treatment of this, his latest volume on the subject, is descriptive and historical. It is most interestingly written, and the maps, charts, and tables are of great value.

"This book, by a scholarly missionary, still in the vigor of youth, is excellent in every respect, a model in book-making, so far as introductory matter, text, illustrations, arrangement, bibliography, and indexing are concerned. It is an ideal handbook for study, with maps, statistics, and all the apparatus for a careful examination of the subject. The needs and opportunities of the Mohammedan world from the standpoint of Christian missions is shown, and a flood of light is shed, that dissipates much of the mystery and romance about the rise of Mohammed and the religion named after him, and which makes obsolete much matter in the old encyclopedias."

The aim of the volume is to exhibit the interworking of the many agencies in this Oriental Renaissance, and their true relation, one to another, as well as to clearly depict the material, social, and religious environment of the Japanese missionary. The treatment is broad and catholic, and the attempt has been made to do equal justice to all leading elements that have entered into Japan's recent wonderful progress, including her relations with Russia.

A better manual upon the Japanese Empire and its evangelization could scarcely be produced.—Church Missionary Intelligencer.

Pastor and Modern Missions, The: A Plea for Leadership in the World Evangelization

By John R. Mott. Missionary Bibliography. 12mo, 249 pp.; paper, 35 cents; cloth, gilt top, $1.00.

The volume is a reprint in enlarged form of a course of lectures delivered at Ohio Wesleyan University, Yale Divinity School, McCormick and Princeton Theological Seminaries. It deals with world conditions at the beginning of the twentieth century and with the pastor as he stands between his church and the world's need. The various chapters discuss in a most suggestive way the pastor as an educational, a financial, a recruiting, and a spiritual force in the world's evangelization. As a book of missionary methods and as an inspiration to prospective or actual pastors it is of the utmost value.

Protestant Missions in South America

By Harlan P. Beach, Canon F. P. L. Josa, Professor J. Taylor Hamilton, Rev. H. C. Tucker, Rev. C. W. Drees, D.D., Rev. I. H. LaFetra, Rev. Thomas B. Wood, LL.D., and Mrs. T. S. Pond. Protestant Missions; Their Rise and Early Progress

By Augustus C. Thompson. Appendix, index. 12mo, 314 pp.; paper 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

An excellent summary of early Protestant missions; mainly biographical, and describing fully a few great missionaries rather than referring to many of comparatively little importance. The author sketches the history from the Reformation to a little more than a century ago, grouping his facts largely around leading missionaries, so that the charm of biography is added to that of little known history. Much of the volume has to do with early missions in the two Americas.

Religions of Mission Fields as Viewed by Missionaries

By ten prominent missionaries. Bibliographies and index. 12mo; paper, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

This volume treats of nine principal religions of the great mission fields. The chapters are written by missionaries of experience who have given special study to the religions which they here discuss. It is particularly valuable for intending missionaries, since the viewpoint of the writers is a practical rather than a theoretic one. The religions included in the volume an the writers upon each are as follows: African r ligion, E. H. Richards, D.D.; Shintoism, J. H DeForrest, D.D.; Taoism, H. C. DuBose, D.D Confucianism, D. Z. Periwinkle

An Idyl of the Dunes

By WILLIAM FARQUHAR PAYSON

Author of
"John Vytal," "Debonnaire,"
"Barry Gordon," etc.

12mo Illustrated by Thomas Fogarty $1.35 net

Mr. Payson's latest novel is a story of the rugged life-savers of Cape Cod. They form a stalwart background for their little idol, Periwinkle, who in her infancy has been cast up by the sea and who grows to maturity among them, and is called "the daughter of the regiment."

When she in turn saves a shipwrecked castaway—a man young and ardent like herself—the narrative grows tense with feeling. The love story of the girl and her rough Cape Cod wooers and Dick Langdon, the castaway, is instinct with the vast freedom of the waves and dunes. And through it all the quaint little sea-waif is the informing spirit of the scene.

The story is simply and delicately wrought and in reading it one seems ever to hear, as if listening to a seashell's murmur, the haunting music of the sea. Periwinkle is a new figure in fiction.

The Lady of Shenipsit

A Story of New England

By FREDERIC P. LADD
Author of "One Fair Daughter," and "The Woman Pays."

12mo Illustrated by Gordon Grant $1.35 net

The beautiful heroine of this story, with her high and fine nature, is married young to a clever man whose essential shallowness and vulgarity she discovers too late. How she escapes from this intolerable situation the reader can learn from the tale itself.

This novel has its appeal alike to those who care primarily for a pair of ardent lovers with something interesting happening about them, and to those who like to find in a novel food for reflection, a wider knowledge of human nature, and studies of life and manners. By its plot, by its dramatic and at times almost melodramatic incidents, and by the puzzling movement of the story towards a conclusion impossible to foresee until the dénouement is imminent, this book has a strongly sustained interest.

Hunting Camps in Wood and Wilderness

By H. HESKETH-PRICHARD, F.R.G.S., F.Z.S., etc.
Author of "Through the Heart of Patagonia," "Don Q.," etc.

With an introduction by FREDERIC C. SELOUS

Small Quarto Six full-page plates in color, and nearly 100 other illustrations $5.00 net

This book tells of the experiences of a hunter and trained naturalist in Patagonia and British North America. It makes a special appeal to the American public because the localities with which the greater part of the work deal are for them within easy reach, and because the number of Americans who visit such places greatly increases year by year. The author of this volume, Mr. Hesketh-Prichard, is perhaps the best-known of English big-game hunters and a sportsman of world-wide repute. The present work, every way trustworthy, and interesting as a tale of adventure, will surely receive the same warm welcome that met this author's preceding book, Through the Heart of Patagonia.

About one hundred illustrations, six of them in color, will add to the value and interest of the work.

The Suffragette

By E. SYLVIA PANKHURST
With an introduction by MRS. PANKHURST

Cloth 12mo Fully illustrated $1.50 net

The author of this book, which may be regarded as in a manner the official history of the equal suffrage movement, is Miss E. Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Pankhurst, the founder and Honorable Secretary of the Women's Social and Political Union. Mrs. Pankhurst provides the introduction.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst has herself played an important part in the campaign of which she is here the historian. Her narrative, opening with a résumé of the equal suffrage movement of the period preceding its militant stage, is primarily an account of that movement as it is to-day and as it has been recently conducted—a vivid, graphic, dramatic story, full of hope and enthusiasm, yet a careful, accurate, and in large part first-hand chronicle. Attention is given also to the equal suffrage cause in America. The illustrations, presenting many of those prominent as suffragists and numerous incidents that may now be said to have a place in contemporary history, add to the interest of this book.

Famous Impostors

By BRAM STOKER
Author of "Personal Reminiscences of Henry Irving," "Dracula," etc.

Crown 8vo Illustrated $2.00 net

The world likes to read of the great impostors who have duped it, and this book tells of famous swindlers, charlatans, and pretenders who have, many of them, achieved notoriety in two hemispheres. The authorship of this volume—Mr. Stoker is distinguished both as biographer and novelist—is an assurance that it will be both entertaining and carefully documented. Treating of an interesting phase of social history, it is also a curious study of human gullibility. Various types of swindlers, humbugs, pretenders and mystagogues are presented—pretenders to the throne of the lost Sebastian of Portugal, "Princess Olive," pretender to the English throne, the "false Czar," and in more recent times the Humberts, Madame Dis de Bar, Dowie, and a strange group of men who, for their own purposes, passed themselves off for women, and of women who passed themselves off for men.

The Lady
Of Different Times and Nations

By EMILY JAMES PUTNAM

Crown 8vo Fully illustrated $2.50 net

This book is a series of imaginary portraits or intimate and graphic studies of the lady of different times and nations—how she was educated, the conditions that made her what she was, the kind of man she married, her domestic and social life, her duties, occupations and pleasures, her home and its appurtenances, her relation to art and letters, and to the affairs of the great world. Beginning with the Greek lady, and ending with a sketch of the twentieth-century lady, and dealing with a subject in which everyone is interested, this book, with its finished graces of style, its combined lightness of touch, irony, and substantial knowledge, can not fail to give pleasure and satisfaction to discriminating readers and especially, perhaps, to women.

The representative and carefully chosen illustrations add to the attractiveness of this handsome volume.

Leopold the Second
King of the Belgians

By ANGELO S. RAPPOPORT, Ph.D.
Author of "The Curse of the Romanoffs," "Royal Lovers and Mistresses," etc.

Demy 8vo Photogravure portrait and other illustrations $4.00 net

After Nicholas I. and the deposed Sultan Abdul Hamid, Leopold II., the late King of the Belgians, has perhaps been the best abused monarch of the last century. His private life, his treatment of his daughters, the Princesses Stephanie, Louise and Clementine, his reputed avarice, and the famous Congo atrocities have helped to rouse European opinion and frequent indignation against the late Belgian monarch. It must, however, be admitted that in spite of his many faults Leopold II. was one of the most intelligent and clever rulers of contemporary Europe. His long reign was a reign of prosperity for Belgium, and the Belgians, therefore, forgave him many of his transgressions and faults from which even kings are not exempt. To give a true picture of Leopold II., based upon an impartial judgment, and faithful to history is the aim of the author in the present work, for which the information has been drawn from the most reliable sources.

West Point and the U. S. Military Academy

A Brief History

By EDWARD S. HOLDEN, LL. D.
Librarian of the U. S. Military Academy
Author of "Centennial of the U. S. Military Academy," etc.

12mo Illustrated $2.00 net

The whole story of our national school of war has never been adequately told. The materials — manuscripts, maps, books, views, etc.,—have been gathered at West Point until they make a little library of themselves, containing over one thousand separate numbers, many of them being unique manuscripts, and rare pamphlets.

Dr. Edward S. Holden, the Librarian of the Academy, a graduate of the class of 1870, has undertaken to write a brief history of the U. S. Military Academy, to be well illustrated from old prints, modern photographs, etc. The history will be based on all the material owned by the Academy and is intended to furnish an authentic account of the whole activity of the school—an account that should be interesting to the general reader as well as to the graduates.

Cowboy Songs

Collected and Edited by JOHN A. LOMAX
Professor of English in the University of Texas,
Sheldon Fellow of Harvard University

12mo $1.50 net

This volume is a collection of the cowboy ballads and songs that sprang up in the seventies along the cattle trails. The songs are set down just as they have been sung by a generation of cowpunchers. They are breezy, realistic, unblushingly profane. There are love songs; songs of the camp; trail songs; freighting songs; songs of the stampede, the Indian fight; and songs of the miner, the hunter, the squatter, that appealed to the imagination of these unknown ballad-makers.

The music of some fifteen of the best songs is a special feature of the book, which constitutes an important chapter in the history of the American ballad.

JUVENILES

The Doings of the Dollivers

Strange Adventures of a Doll Family

By GRACE MacGOWAN COOKE
Author of "Mistress Joy," "Hulda," etc.

Cloth Square 12mo Illustrated by Harry Linnell $1.00 net

This story, telling of a little community of dolls of different types, sexes, and colors, that live a life of their own by night when the children have left the nursery, has proved its popularity by appearing, in part, in periodicals where young readers gave it the warm welcome that prompted its publication illustrated and in book form.

So clever is the characterization of the Dolliver family of dolls, so full of sly, pleasant humor, so amusing in its incidents which record the Dollivers' adventures in toy automobiles, dirigible balloons, aeroplanes, etc., etc., that the book is as certain to entertain older people as the youngsters for whom it was designed. The author is Mrs. Grace MacGowan Cooke, who has demonstrated her unfailing success in delighting children. The artist has interpreted with a skilled hand and in the right vein the rich drollery of the printed page.

The Children's City

New York for Young People

By ESTHER SINGLETON
Author of "Social New York Under the Georges," etc., etc.

The purpose of this book is to help young people to enjoy the pleasures of New York City—to describe leisure-hour or half-holiday jaunts, trips and outings that are at once delightful, healthful, and informing, and leave those who follow the suggestions of the volume with a juster idea of the many-sided interest of our American metropolis—its history and historic landmarks; its scenic beauties; its museums, art galleries and natural history collections; its zoological gardens and other institutions and exhibitions.

Miss Singleton, whose books have aided many to enjoy travel at home and abroad, here selects for attention only such places and objects as are sure to seize the attention and touch the imagination of young minds.

Red-Letter Days of Samuel Pepys

Selections from the Diary

Edited by EDWARD FRANK ALLEN

With an introduction by HENRY B. WHEATLEY, F.S.A.

12mo Cloth Illustrated $1.25 net

Life is short, and the Diary of Samuel Pepys is long; yet he who has failed to make the acquaintance of the author of the book in question has missed a rare pleasure. To introduce to Mr. Pepys those who have not met him, to make him more readily accessible to the host of those who already know him—these are the aims of this volume of selected passages which are to the original book as a graphic sketch to a finished portrait.

No man has ever turned himself inside out in print with such sincerity and completeness as Mr. Pepys. What he tells of himself continually leaves the reader in blank amazement at his frankness. All his frailties are laid bare. Mr. Pepys as a trencherman and in his cups, Mr. Pepys and the fair sex, Mr. Pepys as competent official, as a lover of books and prints and music, Mr. Pepys in the days of the plague and the Great Fire, Mr. Pepys and his remarkable relations with his handsome and jealous wife, Mr. Pepys as court gossip—in all these and many other aspects the author of the Diary presents himself to the reader in a most enlivening chronicle.

The Court Series of French Memoirs

Translated from the French and Edited by E. JULES MÉRAS

Ten vols. (sold separately) 12mo Illustrated
$1.50 net each

This series consists chiefly of material never before translated into English. It contains memoirs, historical and anecdotal, giving a vivid and interesting picture of society in and about the Court of France. The volumes together cover the period from the death of Louis XIV to the reign of Napoleon First. They are made up of material drawn from the intimate and authoritative sources, and afford better side lights upon the period covered than any similar period of history in any country can show.

The following volumes are now ready:

Secret Memoirs of the Regency (The Minority of Louis XV), By CHARLES PINOT DUCLOS.

The author of these memoirs, who was born in 1704 and died in 1772, was historiographer of France and member and secretary of the French Academy. From secret papers, state and private, and from the testimony of actual witnesses, and of his own eyes, Duclos compiled these memoirs which are as interesting as they are historically important.

Madame de Pompadour. From the note-book of MARÉCHALE D. . . . . by JEAN LOUIS SOULAVIE.

These Memoirs relating to Madame de Pompadour first appeared in 1802. The author, inspired by all that the eighteenth century had written about the favorite, has produced an exceedingly valuable work from which all recent historians of the marquise have freely borrowed.

Recollections of Léonard, Hairdresser to Marie Antoinette.

This light, voluble, gossipy, witty, and slightly scandalous volume, by the irrepressible Gascon, Léonard, is in strong contrast to the book described above. It mirrors faithfully the elegance, the polished frivolity, the laxness, the aristocratic splendors, the grace and charm of the French Court just before the breaking out of the Revolution.

The Royal Family in the Temple Prison. (The Journal of the Imprisonment.) By CLÉRY (Jean Baptiste Cant-Hanet).

This is the story of Louis XVI's valet, Cléry, of the confinement of the Royal Family in the Temple Prison, and includes an account by the Abbé Edgeworth of the last hours of the King. It is an historical document of tragic and dramatic interest.

During the Reign of Terror: The Journal of Grace Dalrymple Elliott.

These memoirs record the experiences of Grace Dalrymple Elliott, a beautiful English lady, the close friend of Philippe Egalité, Duc d'Orleans, in the awful scenes of the Terror. Among other matters of interest it gives pictures of the prisons during that period; and it is illuminating as well in making clear the course of Philippe Egalité during the Revolution.

The following volumes are in preparation:

Memoirs of the Duc De Lauzun (Companion of Rochambeau in America, 1744-1783, reigns of Louis XV and Louis XVI); Recollections of an Officer of Napoleon's Army, by Captain E. Blaize; Memoirs Relating to Fouché, Minister of Police under Napoleon; Memoirs Relating to the Empress Josephine, by Mlle. Georgette Ducrest, treating of events between 1800-1814; "1814" (Manuscript of Baron Fain, Private Secretary to Napoleon).

Literary Criticism from the Elizabethan Dramatists

Repertory and Synthesis

By DAVID KLEIN, Ph.D.

Instructor in English Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York

12mo $1.50 net

With an Introductory Note by J. E. SPINGARN

In this volume, which is certain to be of service to students of the history of criticism and literary theory, are collected all the utterances of the Elizabethan dramatists on their own art. Whatever of unity and completeness underlies these utterances has been brought out in the scholarly synthesis of Dr. Klein, which finally sums up the contribution of Elizabethan dramatic writers to the theory of dramatic art.

Letters to Several Persons of Honour by John Donne.

The text edited with notes by CHARLES EDMUND MERRILL, Jr.

Six hundred copies printed from type on handmade paper.

Small quarto. Old-style boards. Slip case. Frontispiece portrait.
$5.00 net

To our generation Donne is known chiefly as the author of the Poems of 1633 and as the subject of Walton's beautiful Life and Death of Dr. Donne. It has been hard for us to realize the identity of the poet and the saintly Dean of Walton's love and admiration. These letters, published twenty years after Donne's death by his son and now for the first time reprinted verbatim et literatim from the original edition, go far toward the solution of a problem in temperament, the fascination of which is comparable to that exercised by the personality of another (and very different) poet and Dean, Jonathan Swift.

Remembrance Booklets

Vellum Covers. Stamped in red and gold. 25 cents net each

The booklets in this series are designed to serve (in place of Christmas cards which are no longer generally acceptable) as tokens of remembrance to send friends in Holiday time or at any other season—tokens that contain, each of them, something of wit, wisdom, or beauty, and that should be everywhere welcomed on the score of their dainty and comely appearance, and their intrinsic worth. A little slip, with a blank for the name of the sender and the person to whom the token is sent, is enclosed in each booklet.

The series includes:

1. Popular Carols
2. Ancient Carols
3. Sayings of Dr. Johnson
4. Thirty Sonnets
5. Lyrics from Tennyson
6. Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam

OF

E. B. TREAT & COMPANY

241-243 West 23d Street, NEW YORK

Surgical Diseases of Children: A Modern Treatise on Pediatric Surgery. By Samuel W. Kelley, M.D., Professor of Diseases of Children, Cleveland College of Physicians and Surgeons; Pediatrist, St. Luke's Hospital and City Hospital; Pediatrist and Orthopedist, St. Clair Hospital, etc., Cleveland, O.

Surgical diseases of infants and children are as distinct in their peculiarities as are their medical diseases; but, large and important as this field may be, it is among the most neglected in the entire world of medicine to-day. In surgical pediatrics, as in medical, there are disorders which are found at no other time of life, and others which, though they occur in adults as well as in children, when found in the latter present different pathological phenomena, run a different course, require different treatment, and arrive at such a different result, as to be worthy of a distinct classification and study. The author's training specially qualifies him for the present work, which is the first yet written by an American devoted entirely to the surgical diseases of children. More than 300 illustrations, mostly of the author's own cases, are an attractive and instructive feature of the work, rendered more valuable by full descriptions under each, forming little clinics in themselves.

Octavo. 768 Pages. Over 300 Illustrations. Cloth, Express Paid, $5.00 net.

Disorders of the Bladder, with Technique of Cystoscopy. By Follen Cabot, M.D., Professor Genitourinary Diseases, Post-Graduate Medical School; Attending Genitourinary Surgeon, Post-Graduate and City Hospitals, New York.

This book has been written for the guidance of the general practitioner, the chief aim of the author being to give practical methods for the diagnosis and treatment of disorders of the urinary bladder. After considerable experience with both the medical and surgical sides of the subject, the need of such a book has become apparent. Many practitioners in the past have felt that the technique of cystoscopy was beyond their reach, but the recent improvements and reduction in cost of the instruments for this purpose have brought it within the reach of all, thus enabling them to accurately diagnose and successfully treat various hitherto obscure disorders of the bladder and kidneys. While cystoscopy has justly been accorded an important position as a means of diagnosis and also in the treatment of many disorders, all useful methods have been discussed and their relative values assigned.

Spondylotherapy. Spinal-Concussion and the Application of Other Methods to the Spinal-Region in the Treatment of Disease. By Albert Abrams, M.D., F.R.M.S., Consulting Physician, San Francisco; formerly Professor of Pathology, Cooper Medical College.

The subject of spinal therapeutics has received less attention from the medical profession than it deserves, although others, less scientific but more astute, have determined empirically that manipulation of the spine does sometimes cure conditions that have failed of cure in the hands of experienced physicians. The author has endeavored to put spinal therapeutics in a place befitting its scientific importance, and to emphasize its great practical helpfulness in disease. "A notable contribution to the rational therapy of the Twentieth Century."

Disorders of Metabolism and Nutrition. A Series of Monographs. By Professor Dr. Carl von Noorden, Professor of the First Medical Clinic, Vienna, Austria, and Assistants. Authorized English Translation, edited by Boardman Reed, M.D.

It is due to the disorders of metabolism and nutrition that degenerative changes cut short the activities of so many men and women in middle life,—that, in these latter days, senility and death itself come prematurely to a very large proportion of mankind.

Medical Record, New York, says:—"The author is clear and sound in his teachings, simplifies conditions so far as possible, and gives a good practical working knowledge, such as he has gathered from a large experience in his field."

American Journal of Surgery, New York, says:—"We do not recall that this subject has ever been touched upon in a separate volume before, or even adequately in volumes devoted to collective discussions. This work may therefore be said to fill a definite want."

Illustrated Skin Diseases. An Atlas and Text-Book, with Special Reference to Modern Diagnosis and the Most Approved Methods of Treatment. By William S. Gottheil, M.D., Professor of Skin and Venereal Diseases, New York School of Clinical Medicine.

It has been difficult to represent in words or picture in drawings the manifold impressions and delicate variations of color and shape that are so readily appreciated through the optic nerve and detected in the living subject. In this extensive collection, taken in hospital, dispensary, and private practice, the new photographic process of color photography has been employed, thus producing life-like representations from living subjects which surpass in life-like effects any and all attempts at chromo-lithography.

The New York Medical Record says:—"The stronghold of the work is its color photography, depicting as it does from life what heretofore it has been considered impossible to illustrate. The etiology, pathology and diagnosis are given in as few words as practical, and great space is devoted to modern therapeutics."

Second Edition. Quarto, 440 Pages, Profusely Illustrated, Bound in Half Morocco, $17.00.

System of Legal Medicine. A Complete Work of Reference for Medical and Legal Practitioners. By Allan McLane Hamilton, M.D., Consulting Physician to the Insane Asylums of New York City; Assisted by Lawrence Godkin, of the New York Bar, and a Corps of Thirty Collaborators.

The great features of the work are its Citations and Cases, nearly 5,000, chiefly American, its vast amount of Experimental Research, and its up-to-date Theory and Practice.

The University Medical Magazine, Philadelphia, says:—"The list of contributors includes many of the most distinguished writers and authorities in medicine and law. As a book of reference it will be found equally invaluable to the physician and the lawyer in the preparation of their cases that go to court. The individual work of the various contributors is excellent. It embodies the most recent knowledge of the subject, without redundancies or statistics."

The Therapeutic Gazette says:—"The articles have been written by persons who are universally recognized as being eminent authorities in their various specialties. They have taken pains to contribute articles which are exceedingly creditable to their powers of description and observation."

The Journal of American Medical Association says:—"This work is devoid of padding, is clear and comprehensive, and the references to cases are so full as to make it encylopedic in scope."
